Dec. 20.—Lelia Osgood Vanderbilt, daughter of Wm. H. Vanderbilt, was married in St. Bartholomew's church, to Harold Webb, son of Gen. James Watson Webb. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. S. Harding, rector of St. Bartholomew's, assisted by Rev. Dr. Potter, rector of the Church of Heavenly Rest, who pronounced the benediction. Miss Vanderbilt, leaning on the arm of the groom, was organist when he entered in a dress made by Worth, silver satin, en train, veiled with point lace and flounced in front. A train extended to the end of the train and the coiffure by a tiara of diamonds. The house was densely crowded by the guests, many having tickets being unable to get in. Vanderbilt's residence a reception. The house was decorated with flowers and the wedding presents were displayed in a private dining room. Many elegant presents were received, magnificent diamonds from the bride and diamonds and silver from Vanderbilt; Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Mills and others. SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 20.—Lieut. Geo. Aponovitch, governor general of eastern Siberia, who has just arrived here, brought news that the steamer of the North American Polar expedition, which has been lost since 1879, has been discovered and assistance rendered the crew. It is believed here this relief is the distance to. The crew are said to have suffered no loss.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The finding of the Arctic exploring steamer Jeannette, was reported to a meeting of the Royal Geographical Society.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The Commercial Advertiser prints the following: A private dispatch was sent by Ferdinand Ayer, secretary of state, to the Herald, office this afternoon, announcing the loss of the Jeannette and rescue of two boats filled with men, containing three of the officers of the expedition and 20 of the crew. The other boat, No. 2, has not been heard from, and is supposed to have been lost.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20, 1881.

The following is a telegram just received from Hoffman, charge d'affairs of the United States at St. Petersburg: "The Jeannette was crushed within ice on June 14, 1881, in latitude 77 north, longitude 157 east. The crew embarked in three boats, which were separated by wind and fog. No. 3 boat, with 13 men, under charge of Engineer Melville, reached the mouth of the Lena river on Sept. 19th. Boat No. 1, having on board Capt. DeLong, Dr. Ambler and 10 men, reached the Lena river in a similar condition. Prompt assistance was rendered. Boat No. 2 has not been heard from.

F. F. FRELINGHUYSEN,
Secretary of State.

Conecry, managing editor of the Herald, said he had no facts beyond dispatches upon which he could base any opinion relative to the expedition. It appeared to him that the steamer had been lost beyond recovery, and that the occupants of the second boat, among whom is Lieut. Chas. Collins, the Herald correspondent, were also lost, although there was hope that they might yet turn up.

A Message of Thanks.

In response to Hoffman's dispatch, the following was transmitted to-day:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20, 1881.

Hoffman, Charge d' Affairs, St. Petersburg:—Tender the hearty thanks of the president to all authorities or persons who have in any way been instrumental in rescuing DeLong and the survivors from the Jeannette, or furnishing information to this government.

FRELINGHUYSEN, Sec. of state.

The "Jeannette" Reported All Right.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Special from London: The governor of Siberia has just issued a proclamation announcing that the Arctic voyage ship Jeannette is safe with all on board and well, and all her equipments intact. The governor, who has taken for a long time great interest in the Arctic explorations, caused an extraordinary exploring party to be sent out to hunt the tracks of the Jeannette when he learned that fears were entertained that misfortune had overtaken her, and valley conditions were believed favorable for the interest by different governments. Knowing the delays incident to such governmental action, he at once equipped and sent out on his own account a party of the most experienced and reliable explorers that they had become objects of solicitude of all the civilized nations of the world, and that nearly all Christian governments were preparing to make appropriations for rescuing, relying in the search for what it was generally feared would prove to be only their remains. After ascertaining that the Jeannette was absolutely safe and all on board well and fully provided for, the party dispatched back to report the good news, for which the governor had impressed upon them the whole scientific world was anxiously waiting. The governor of Siberia at once dispatched up-river couriers with the news to have it get to London with all possible speed, and it reached London but a few minutes ago.

Reports of a Siberian Traveler.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—George Kennan, of this city, who some years ago traveled a thousand miles or more up the river Lena, at the mouth of which Commander DeLong and the survivors of the crew of the Arctic steamer Jeannette recently landed, says even the Jeannette's crew will find a hospitable reception at the hands of the Indigirkas and mouth of the Lena. If she reached the coast early enough in summer, he thought to have found Russian and native fishing stations at the mouth of the Yana, Indigirka and other smaller streams, which flow into the Arctic ocean in that vicinity, and thus have obtained succor much nearer than the Lena. It is possible, however, that he did not reach the mainland until after the fishing stations had all been abandoned and deserted and had all recreated up the river to their winter villages, which are a rule are situated some distance inland. At the mouth of the Lena, there is, I believe, a permanent settlement and this seems to have been appointed a rendezvous for all the boats. If the third boat failed to reach the rendezvous agreed upon, the conclusion by no means follows it is lost. The crew may have found inhabited stations nearer than the mouth of the Lena, or been picked up by the Russian native fishing boat and carried or guided to some other place of safety. In such case they might not be heard from for a month or more after the arrival of other boats. The third boat's crew should not be given up as lost until we have heard from all the villages along the Yana and Indigirka, and from Nizhni Kolimsk, which is a place of refuge quite as near and quite as accessible as the mouth of the Lena. The retreat of these boats across three hundred miles of an ice-encumbered Arctic sea to the Siberian mainland, is a remarkable achievement, and one which is unparalleled in arctic history on record by the retreat of Parents and his men across the northern extremity of Nova Zembla and of the crew of the Tegetthof from Franz Josef Land. The fact that DeLong and his men were three months at sea and on the ice upon boats before they reached the mouth of the Lena is a fact which in itself tells a wonderful tale.

If the Jeannette's boats have arrived here, they would have all the comforts and many of the luxuries of life, and the Russian governor of the ice coast province would furnish them transportation either across the Stanovoi mountains to Okhotsk, where they could be sailed for the coast in the vessels of our Pacific squadron, or up the Lena to Irkoutsk, and thence overland to St. Petersburg. They will have no difficulty in getting home from the mouth of the Lena. The journey up the river from the Arctic sea coast to Yakoutsk, will be a hard one on account of the great severity of the climate in that part of Siberia, but it ought not to occupy more than a month or a month and a half, and is not attended with any danger to men of fair powers of endurance. It is in some respects an easier journey than that from Nizhni Kolymsk to Yakoutsk, which is performed by scores of Russian traders every winter. The news received today was brought from the mouth of the Lena by a special messenger up the river to Yakoutsk on dog sledges. Lasnee by Cossack courier, travelling day and night with relays of horses, to Irkoutsk, the capital of Eastern Siberia, and thence by telegraph to St. Petersburg. The news has been thirty two months and perhaps more getting from the mouth of the Lena to Irkoutsk, and it is more than possible the next information we get will be that of the arrival of the shipwrecked crew at Yakoutsk. The governor of the sea coast province at Yakoutsk is a man of cultivation and enlightenment, and, if I mistake not, a member of the Siberian branch of the Imperial Geographical Society.

Efforts of the Russian Government.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 20.—News was received by the government at Jakutsk, eastern Siberia, that on the 16th of September three natives of Oulonsc, near Cape Bouteray, 140 versts north of Cape Ischof, discovered a boat containing eleven men, who stated they belonged to the Jeannette and had undergone terrible sufferings. On hearing the news the district deputy governor with a doctor and medicines was immediately dispatched to help the ship-wrecked sailors, and was instructed to bring them to Yakutsch. The governor was also instructed to do everything in his power to forward the remainder of the crew, 500 roubles being given him to defray his expenses. Engineer Melville has telegraphed the American legation at St. Petersburg all information forwarded by Hoffman to the secretary of state.

Tidings from Engineer Melville.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 20.—A special supplement to the Official Gazette, issued this evening, announces that all telegrams from Engineer Melville of the first Arctic exploring steamer Jeannette, were forwarded to their destination as promptly as possible, and that the most energetic measures will be taken for the discovery of the remainder of the crew of the Jeannette, and those left on the ice at the mouth of Lena river.

A Shipwrecked Crew Rescued.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Seventeen of the crew of the steamer Bath City, from Bristol for New York, spoken by the steamer Marathon, Dec. 11, off St. Johns, N. F., have arrived at Liverpool. The bark Wm. Fehs visited them up off Newfoundland. The Bath City sprung a leak off Newfoundland during heavy weather and sank. The crew of 27 men, including the captain, took to two boats. One of the boats capsized and four of its occupants were drowned. The remaining 23 men were exposed to intense cold from the effects of which the captain and five of the crew died. The survivors were three days and nights in boats.

Blaine's Letter to the New Special Envoy to Chili, Peru and Bolivia.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Correspondence between the department of state and the Chilian and Peruvian legations is now being copied to send to the senate in response to a resolution of that body. As that may require several days, Secretary Blaine, with the approval of the president, to-day gave the following:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20, 1881.

Wm. H. Trescott, Chilian Envoy, Santiago—Sir: Some erroneous statements now being circulated in portions of the American press may reach Santiago and exercise an injurious influence in the minds of the Chilian government, and I write you this instruction from excess of caution, in order that no embarrassing misunderstanding may result. The erroneous statements to which I particularly refer are those which represent this government as in some way giving encouragement to such claim against Peru which, being acknowledged, should entitle the United States to pay an indemnity to Chili and then practically own Peru, either directly or through an association of American citizens. This is an extreme and reliable interpretation of his command, with the most ample powers and positive instructions. These men at once entered into the undertaking with all their souls, and amid valley conditions were believed favorable for the interest by different governments. Knowing the delays incident to such governmental action, he at once equipped and sent out on his own account a party of the most experienced and reliable explorers that they had become objects of solicitude of all the civilized nations of the world, and that nearly all Christian governments were preparing to make appropriations for rescuing, relying in the search for what it was generally feared would prove to be only their remains. AN EXCELLENT REASON.

Why Guiteau did not Insult his Former Wife while on the Witness Stand.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—It will be remembered that some days ago, in court, Guiteau who had not read in the newspapers that his divorced wife had been summoned by the prosecution as a witness against him, made various vulgar remarks concerning her and threatened that when she came into the stand he would rip up her record, as he termed it. Mrs. Dunmire did testify on Friday and although her evidence went very far to show him up as a sane scoundrel, it was noted with surprise that he never interrupted her, and that as she went out of the court room he spoke of her as a high toned christian lady, to whom he wished well. It was also remarked that during her examination he exhibited an extraordinary degree of nervous fear, his hands trembling as he held the paper behind which he was concealing himself, and that he breathed a long sigh of relief when he indeed Scoville let out short the cross examination. The throng of spectators that daily crowd the court room were disappointed in their hope of a sensation. There has been a great deal of cough drops as to what influence was used to abate the ordinary truculence and blackguardism of this murderer and forced him to behave himself decently towards Mrs. Dunmire. The explanation is that when Mr. Du pont arrived in Washington with his wife, he heard of the threats that Guiteau had made, and at once sought an interview with Mr. Scoville, to whom he declared most emphatically that if the assassin attempted to blacken his wife's character or subject her to the slightest inconvenience while she was on the witness stand, he would shoot him down as he would a dog. Mr. Dunmire is a big, stalwart man of the typical character of the men of Leadville, where he resides, and there is no doubt that if occasion offered itself he would have been as good as his word. Mr. Scoville comprehended to Guiteau the warning Mr. Dunmire had uttered, and hence the wretch treated her with courtesy. While preparing to leave for court on the morning that Mrs. Dunmire testified, Guiteau sent up a cunning conversation with Mr. Scoville, and intimated his intention of making things lively during the trial that day. "That divorced wife of mine," he said, "has been brought here to do me harm, and I hope to show her up."

Said Deputy Warden Rusk, who overheard the remark, "I would advise you to do nothing of the kind."

Guiteau—Why not? (excitedly).

"Because," was the answer, "her husband will be near her and close enough to see everything you do, and hear everything you say."

"But he won't dare to interfere with me; I'm under the protection of the court."

"That is true," said Mr. Rusk, "but I wouldn't trust him. He is a powerful man and looks like a determined man, and I have heard has taken some desperate chances in Leadville."

"Is that so?" exclaimed Guiteau, apparently surprised, "I never heard that of him before."

The guards say he dropped the conversation at this point, and was led out of jail quietly. The chief novelty aside from the misfortune of Mr. Hobbs was the changed appearance of the prisoner. His face was shaved smooth and his beard has taken down improved his looks. It was done to enable Clerk Mills and his son to take a plaster cast of his face, a step thought to be desirable by court purposes, but to which Guiteau objected till an appeal was made to vanity, when he consented at once. He only needed to be reminded that most great men have casts of their features preserved for the emolument of posterity, to readily yield to the inconvenience of the operation. No doubt a copy of the cast will soon adorn Madame Tussaud's chamber of horrors. The loss of two days facilitated to the death of General of Mrs. Hobbs will serve to still further delay the termination of the trial, and it is very doubtful now if a verdict will be reached this year. The "hen fit of the jury is again excellent, so that no further apprehension is felt on that score. Mr. Scoville is much delighted by his labors, but keeps up a resolute spirit. Judge Cox is a man of few words and of somewhat reserved and even stern character, and says little in reply to the newspaper criticisms on the management of the case. At the proper time he will review the judicial problems raised by the prisoner's conduct. As has been stated he acts in sympathy and upon the advice of his associates on the bench of the supreme court of the district.

Among lawyers here there is an impression that the death of juror Hobbs' wife and his absence to attend the funeral will eventuate in a new trial for Guiteau. While counsel on both sides suggested that Hobbs should attend the funeral, the idea is that the defense will, if necessary, make use of it to get a new trial, provided the present verdict is against them. The court is declining according to the defense every right and every privilege, out of abundant caution against the possibility of hanging a man not mentally responsible.

Guiteau Interviewed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—A press reporter has interviewed Guiteau. The latter expressed delight at seeing his "friend" and appeared to be quite lonesome and immediately became chatty and good natured. He said he was never better in health or spirit. He was generally healthy and had taken things easy since his arrest and never allowed anything to worry him. Although they were bowling to shoot him, they couldn't get a rise out of his "nibs," said he, when told it was reported he had suicided. "What next will they say. This is ridiculous. What on earth should I want to commit suicide for? I am perfectly satisfied that all my things are going. I have never had any doubts of the issue. The Deity has taken care of my case thus far," (reflecting a moment), "yes, and pretty much of me."

"What is the object of recalling Mrs. Dunmire?" asked the reporter.

"I don't know what Scoville's idea is. I shall have to see him about that. I don't want to put that woman on the stand again. Scoville is an original lawyer. I have given him points all the time. But then he has done very well. He has worked hard, and I don't know but that I am satisfied as far as he has managed it alone." Hesitating a moment, he continued: "When I say alone, you understand what I mean"—(evidently fearing the reporter might imagine he had lost confidence in the Deity and inspiration features of his defense). "Keep it out sight of the main feature. He started out with the proposition that an insane man must be a helpless." Guiteau announced his intention of examining government experts. "They had not yet," he said, "touched upon the mysterious evidence of impulse which often impels men to do things even in ordinary affairs of life, when there may be present no sufficient reason, either in the mind or in the senses from the surroundings for a particular exercise of the will upon the body, all the way from one impulse to turn around, and on doing so, finds some one of whom probably he has just been thinking, or when men obeys what is termed presentiment." Guiteau appeared to keenly feel he had never unfrankly appeared to keenly feel he had never unfrankly to those persons who had sold to the press, interviews with him without even offering him a commission. Scoville's attention was called to an alleged statement of Mills, that he found on the floor of Guiteau's head, one side was more fully developed than the other. If the statement is reported correctly, said Scoville, it will sustain the theory I have maintained throughout that Dr. Hamilton's theory to be a back some of his testimony, for he testified his head was symmetrical. Mills' statement supports the statement of the expert for the defense, and I think every expert will admit that he finds an unevenly developed head, the small side forms the basis for an unbalanced brain, and hence become ground word for the cause of insanity. If Mills substantiates this statement, I shall summon him as a witness. Scoville thinks two weeks more will be required to finish the trial.

The Guiteau Entertainment.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The Times, speaking of the Guiteau case, says, nothing in criminal procedure ever equaled the laxity of his trial. What should have been a grave investigation has become a sort of entertainment, and although the murderer and cheat Guiteau has promised the most farcical treat ever heard of, now that he has gained notoriety as a criminal he is bent on showing his importance. Certain parts of the proceedings are neither creditable to the conduct of the prosecution nor discretion of the judge.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20, 1881.

Jones, from the committee on claims reported adversely the bill to authorize the president to make necessary arrangements to carry into effect any convention between the United States and Nicaragua for a settlement of claims which may be concluded between the two governments. Indefinitely postponed.

At the expiration of morning hour, senate resumed consideration of Hoar's resolution for a committee on women's suffrage, and Morgan addressed the senate, after which the senate went into executive session.

Senator Ingalls, of the committee on Indian affairs, reported favorably the bill for the sale of land of the Minnesota Indians in Kansas.

The women suffrage resolution was informally laid aside.

Bolline introduced a bill making the term of internal revenue collectors 4 years and no longer.

Adjourned.

House.

Representative George introduced a bill appropriating $50,000 for the construction of a military wagon road from Scottsburg, Oregon, to Camp Stewart, and $15,000 for a branch to Fort Klamath. It is short cross examination. The throng of spectators that daily crowd the court room were disappointed in their hope of a sensation. There has been a great deal of cough drops as to what influence was used to abate the ordinary truculence and blackguardism of this murderer and forced him to behave himself decently towards Mrs. Dunmire. The explanation is that when Mr. Du pont arrived in Washington with his wife, he heard of the threats that Guiteau had made, and at once sought an interview with Mr. Scoville, to whom he declared most emphatically that if the assassin attempted to blacken his wife's character or subject her to the slightest inconvenience while she was on the witness stand, he would shoot him down as he would a dog. Mr. Dunmire is a big, stalwart man of the typical character of the men of Leadville, where he resides, and there is no doubt that if occasion offered itself he would have been as good as his word. Mr. Scoville communicated to Guiteau the warning Mr. Dunmire had uttered, and hence the wretch treated her with courtesy. While preparing to leave for court on the morning that Mrs. Dunmire testified, Guiteau sent up a cunning conversation with Mr. Scoville, and intimated his intention of making things lively during the trial that day. "That divorced wife of mine," he said, "has been brought here to do me harm, and I hope to show her up."

Said Deputy Warden Rusk, who overheard the remark, "I would advise you to do nothing of the kind."

Guiteau—Why not? (excitedly).

"Because," was the answer, "her husband will be near her and close enough to see everything you do, and hear everything you say."

"But he won't dare to interfere with me; I'm under the protection of the court."

"That is true," said Mr. Rusk, "but I wouldn't trust him. He is a powerful man and looks like a determined man, and I have heard has taken some desperate chances in Leadville."

"Is that so?" exclaimed Guiteau, apparently surprised, "I never heard that of him before."

The guards say he dropped the conversation at this point, and was led out of jail quietly. The chief novelty aside from the misfortune of Mr. Hobbs was the changed appearance of the prisoner. His face was shaved smooth and his beard has taken down improved his looks. It was done to enable Clerk Mills and his son to take a plaster cast of his face, a step thought to be desirable by court purposes, but to which Guiteau objected till an appeal was made to vanity, when he consented at once. He only needed to be reminded that most great men have casts of their features preserved for the emolument of posterity, to readily yield to the inconvenience of the operation. No doubt a copy of the cast will soon adorn Madame Tussaud's chamber of horrors. The loss of two days facilitated to the death of General of Mrs. Hobbs will serve to still further delay the termination of the trial, and it is very doubtful now if a verdict will be reached this year. The "hen fit of the jury is again excellent, so that no further apprehension is felt on that score. Mr. Scoville is much delighted by his labors, but keeps up a resolute spirit. Judge Cox is a man of few words and of somewhat reserved and even stern character, and says little in reply to the newspaper criticisms on the management of the case. At the proper time he will review the judicial problems raised by the prisoner's conduct. As has been stated he acts in sympathy and upon the advice of his associates on the bench of the supreme court of the district.

Among lawyers here there is an impression that the death of juror Hobbs' wife and his absence to attend the funeral will eventuate in a new trial for Guiteau. While counsel on both sides suggested that Hobbs should attend the funeral, the idea is that the defense will, if necessary, make use of it to get a new trial, provided the present verdict is against them. The court is declining according to the defense every right and every privilege, out of abundant caution against the possibility of hanging a man not mentally responsible.

Guiteau Interviewed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—A press reporter has interviewed Guiteau. The latter expressed delight at seeing his "friend" and appeared to be quite lonesome and immediately became chatty and good natured. He said he was never better in health or spirit. He was generally healthy and had taken things easy since his arrest and never allowed anything to worry him. Although they were bowling to shoot him, they couldn't get a rise out of his "nibs," said he, when told it was reported he had suicided. "What next will they say. This is ridiculous. What on earth should I want to commit suicide for? I am perfectly satisfied that all my things are going. I have never had any doubts of the issue. The Deity has taken care of my case thus far," (reflecting a moment), "yes, and pretty much of me."

"What is the object of recalling Mrs. Dunmire?" asked the reporter.

"I don't know what Scoville's idea is. I shall have to see him about that. I don't want to put that woman on the stand again. Scoville is an original lawyer. I have given him points all the time. But then he has done very well. He has worked hard, and I don't know but that I am satisfied as far as he has managed it alone." Hesitating a moment, he continued: "When I say alone, you understand what I mean"—(evidently fearing the reporter might imagine he had lost confidence in the Deity and inspiration features of his defense). "Keep it out sight of the main feature. He started out with the proposition that an insane man must be a helpless." Guiteau announced his intention of examining government experts. "They had not yet," he said, "touched upon the mysterious evidence of impulse which often impels men to do things even in ordinary affairs of life, when there may be present no sufficient reason, either in the mind or in the senses from the surroundings for a particular exercise of the will upon the body, all the way from one impulse to turn around, and on doing so, finds some one of whom probably he has just been thinking, or when men obeys what is termed presentiment." Guiteau appeared to keenly feel he had never unfrankly to those persons who had sold to the press, interviews with him without even offering him a commission. Scoville's attention was called to an alleged statement of Mills, that he found on the floor of Guiteau's head, one side was more fully developed than the other. Wm. Ross, of Pilot Rock, Umatilla county, has sold since last July 250 bucks, he being thoroughbreds, for $6,750; ewes to the amount of $2,025, and wool to the amount of $3,000. The sales of wool were from 3,333 sheep.

During the past season, J. S. Connell, of Umatilla county, has made 5,000 pounds of butter, all of which he sold at 35 and 40 cents per pound. His dairy farm is about 15 miles from Pendleton. During the "Indian raid" three years ago, Mr. Connell had all his buildings burned, together with 4,000 pounds of cheese, which scattered and all tools and implements destroyed.

The treasurer of Umatilla county, has had the new safe belonging to the office encased with brick, placed on a foundation of the same material and located under the stairs leading to the court room, with doors of safe opening into his office. This makes the vault unlike in the safe doubly secure in the event of fire and gives much more room in the office for the transaction of business.

Jacob Tesch one of the oldest persons living on the Rogue river, near Jacksonville, on the 19th inst. He was about 91 years old, and was herding sheep when he became unconscious and in a few hours passed away. He at one time had owned a large portion of the town site of Chetimani, but was pursued by misfortune, until he sought to bury himself in a new region. This he did, finally, having been in the employ of one man as sheep herder for 20 years, and living in almost entire seclusion. He was buried here, away from the place where he died for many years. He was given respectable burial in the Jacksonville cemetery.

There are five lumber mills in Kittitas valley with an aggregate capacity of about 30,000 feet per day. Lumber at these mills sells at from $10 to $12 per thousand.

In Kittitas valley several thousand bushels of grain remain unthreshed. Nearly all the machines are broken or out of repair. Quite a number of small crops are still in the straw, with the prospect of remaining so all winter. This works a hardship on some who are new beginners in farming, as they have their done to buy, and the grain stacks are not in condition, by reason of the heavy rains, to stand over winter.

Pullman is the name of a new town situated on the south Palouse, fifteen miles southeast of Colfax, on the line of the Moscow railroad survey. It consists of one general merchandise store, two blacksmith shops and several dwellings. An extensive furniture manufacturing establishment is in course of erection. The place was formerly called Three Forks, but in petitioning for a postoffice, which will soon be established, the name was changed to Pullman.

It is proposed by prominent men of Port Townsend to build a sawmill and ship yard by a joint stock company, capital stock, $25,000. The stock is to be divided into 2500 shares, $10,000 of which has already been raised. The proposed mill is to be 240 feet long and 40 feet wide, able to cut ship's plank 80 feet long and turn out of common lumber for building purposes 20,000 feet every ten hours. The proposed site is on the bay between Point Wilson and Point Hudson. The following men have been elected directors by the company for the next six months: A. L. Smith, N. D. Hill, C. C. Bartlett, H. E. Morgan, J. S. Kuhn, Chas. Eisenbeis and F. Terry.

COAL ROAD EXTENSION.

Orders were received yesterday from headquarters, directing surveying parties to be put in the field at once to survey a line of road from Renton to the vast bituminous coal fields lying about thirty miles from Renton between Green and Cedar rivers in King county. Parties are now being formed to this work, and the lines will be run and grades established during the present winter, and the work of grading and construction will be commenced in the early spring, and be pushed rapidly ahead as fast as men and money can do the work. The entire thirty miles are to be completed and in running order before the close of 1882. This road will tap one of the richest bituminous coal fields of the Pacific coast, which has recently been discovered and occupied by the Villard people. The coal is of a superior quality and will find ready sale at top prices in the markets of the world. The determination of Villard and his people to extend their road this distance, thus opening up a rich section of the country heretofore comparatively unknown, will be a big lift for Seattle and King county, and this announcement of their determination will be hailed with joy by all who have the interest of our county at heart.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Dec. 14.

Gutteau's "Theory."

[New York World.]

Many things said and done in the trial of Guiteau have been without precedent in any other criminal trial. Perhaps the scene yesterday was the strangest of all. A prisoner on the witness-stand engaged in constructing a theory of his own insanity, fortified with his own statements upon matters of fact, and endeavoring to expound to a jury the precise nature of his irresponsibility for his own acts, is a novelty in criminal jurisprudence.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, DEC. 21, 1881.

FOREIGN NEWS.

A Disastrous Mine Explosion.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—An explosion occurred in the Orrell pit belonging to the Abram Mining Co. to-day. Orley pit, adjacent, is also terribly affected by the explosion. Of over 80 employees in the Orley pit only 25 were brought to the surface alive. It is feared the remainder have perished. The supposition is 180 persons have been killed in the Orrell pit, as 200 descended into the pit this morning. Ten injured persons are so far recovered. The work of exploring the mine and recovering the victims continues.

LATER.—It is now believed only 40 persons were killed. Orrell mine is 156 yards above the Orley mine, and the effect of the explosion in the former imprisoned 180 miners in the lower mine. These were subsequently rescued. Those rescued from the upper seam were seriously burned.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Thirty-four were killed and thirty-six injured by the explosion in a thi ·d mine at Bolton

Lecturing for the Boers.

Alfred Allsward, formerly connected with James Stephens, fenian head center, and present secretary to Joubert, the Boer commander, comes to England to lecture on behalf of the Boers of the Transvaal against the Anglo-Boer convention.

A New Expedition Urged.

A deputation of the Royal Geographical Society had an interview to-day with the first lord of admiralty urging an expedition in search of Leigh Smith.

An Increasing Fund.

The Mansion House fund for the relief of distressed Irish ladies amounts to £3600.

Resigned.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Shaw, independent and liberal member of parliament for county Cork has resigned his membership in the home rule league.

Irish Notes.

DUBLIN, Dec. 20.—Patrick Dunne, a farmer near Abbey Leix, County Queens, has been murdered. His bother Timothy who recently returned, from America and wished to get possession of the farm, has absconded and it is supposed has gone back to America.

John Colony, a prominent member of the land league, has been arrested. A belief exists that there is a secret as well as open organization disturbing Ireland and threatening serious danger.

Lord Colin Campbell, liberal member of parliament for Argyleshire, has joined the Irish policy defense committee.

Will not give up.

DUBLIN, Dec. 20.—Miss Ann Parnell announces that if the office of the land league is seized, correspondence can be sent to Helen Taylor at London.

High Sheriff Selected.

DUBLIN, Dec. 20.—The lord lieutenant of Ireland has selected E. Dwyer Gray as high sheriff of Dublin for 1882.

Half a Panic.

There was a semi panic in American securities yesterday.

Postponed.

The interview between King Alfonso and Ministers Hamlin and Fairchild is postponed for a few days.

An Enquiry Instituted.

Gambetta has ordered inquiry instituted into the affair connected with the arrest of Chancellor at the French consulate at Guadame.

Address Accepted.

BUCHAREST, Dec. 20.—The chamber of deputies adopted an address to the throne by a vote of one seven to fifteen.

More Arrests.

VIENNA, Dec. 20.—Late arrests at St. Petersburg took place in the hope that the person who lost the detail plans of the castle of Gatschina, which he police picked up in a picture gallery, might be found. Red marks on the plan seemed to indicate a clue whereby the name might be ascertained.

Hamlin's Reception.

MADRID, Dec. 20.—Hamlin, the new U. S. minister, presented his credentials to King Alfonso today. Hamlin said he was charged with the pleasant duty of assuring his majesty of the abiding friendship of the president and people of the United States, the long continuance of which would be a matter of just pride to the two nations. It would be his aim to strengthen those relations. Americans held in cherished remembrance the kindest letters of condolence with Mrs. Garfield and the Christian sympathy expressed by their majesties and the royal family, demonstrating the brotherhood of nations in individuals. King Alfonso, on behalf of himself and the royal family and nation, acknowledged the friendly sentiments, which he said were reciprocated. He expressed regret at the death of President Garfield. Fairchild presented his letters of recall, and leaves to-night for Paris.

Von Schlozer's Successor.

BERLIN, Dec. 20.—The Post says: Dr. Busch, undersecretary of state, who has been in Italy 9 months, was instructed to remain in Rome to continue the negotiations begun by Von Schlozer with the vatican. Von Schlozer is expected to arrive here within a few weeks.

Keep the Blood

Is not a "cure-all;" it is a blood-purifier and tonic. Impurity of blood poisons the system, deranges the circulation, and thus induces many disorders, known by different names to distinguish them according to effects, but being really branches or phases of that great generic disorder, Impurity of Blood. Such Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Consumption, Nervous Disorders, Headaches, Scaldhead, General Weakness, Heart Disease, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Piles, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Disorders, Pimples, Ulcers, Swellings, &c., &c. King of the Blood prevents and cures these by attacking the cause, Impurity of the Blood. Chemists and physicians agree in calling it "the most genuine and efficient preparation for the purpose." Sold by druggists. 1 per bottle. See testimonials, directions, &c., in pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," wrapped around each bottle.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED

STOMACH BITTERS

IN HOSTS OF FAMILIES

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is as much regarded as a household necessity as sugar or coffee. The reason of this is that years of experience have proved it to be permanently reliable in those cases of emergency, where a prompt and convenient remedy is demanded. Constipation, liver complaint, dyspepsia, indigestion and other troubles are overcome by it.

For sale by Druggists and Dealers, to whom apply or Hostetter's Almanac for 1882.

THE GENUINE

DR. C. McLANE'S

Celebrated American

WORM SPECIFIC

OR

VERMIFUGE.

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and leaden-colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs along the lower eye-lid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimy or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach, at others, entirely gone; fleeting pains in the stomach; occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen; bowels irregular, at times costive; stools slimy; not unfrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; urine turbid; respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hiccough; cough sometimes dry and convulsive; uneasy and disturbed sleep, with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist,

DR. C. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE

will certainly effect a cure.

IT DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY

in any form; it is an innocent preparation, not capable of doing the slightest injury to the most tender infant.

The genuine DR. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrapper.

DR. C. McLANE'S

LIVER PILLS

are not recommended as a remedy "for all the ills that flesh is heir to," but in affections of the liver, and in all Bilious Complaints, Dyspepsia and Sick Headache, or diseases of that character, they stand without a rival.

AGUE AND FEVER.

No better cathartic can be used preparatory to, or after taking Quinine.

As a simple purgative they are unrivaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Each box has a red wax seal on the lid with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS. Each wrapper bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

The above is a fac simile of what appears on every sack of flour made by SALEM MILLS CO., which has no connection with the Salem F. during Mills Co. This Company is the only one in Oregon which manufactures its Flour on the gradual reduction principle, which is much superior to that made by the old process. Address letters and orders to

DR. McNULTY,

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast in the Treatment of

ALL CHRONIC & DIFFICULT DISEASES.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of Disease of the generative organs or private disease. He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHŒA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet the subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organizations broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored. Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaints, and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot call him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED!

Dr. Wm. Hall's

For the LUNGS. Balsam

Cures Consumption, Colds, Pneumonia, Influenza, Bronchial Difficulties, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, and all diseases of the Breathing Organs. It soothes and heals the membrane of the lungs, inflamed and poisoned by the disease, and prevents the night sweats and tightness across the chest which accompany it. CONSUMPTION is not an incurable malady; it is only necessary to have the right remedy, and HALL'S BALSAM is that remedy. DON'T DESPAIR OF RELIEF, for this benign specific will cure you, even though professional aid fails.

BE SURE to ASK for WM. HALL'S BALSAM, and take no other.
